As a thorough disinfection of all the houses is a matter of absolute necessity, in this important town, I request that you will be so good as to obtain Government Sanction for the sanction to the continuance of the disinfecting staff till the end of January 1903 And stating that if their services are required after that date, further sanction of Government should be obtained, I have the honor to state that their retention till the end of February at least seems to be necessary.

The total No: of houses in Chickmagalur is 2867. The No:
disinfected

disinfected up to date is only 327. The staff commenced working on the 14th of September last, and at the rate at which they have been going on, a considerable time more will elapse before the Town is thoroughly disinfected. The chances of recrudescence are unhappily no longer over, as yet. People have just begun coming into the town, and there are several houses locked up, and left by the owners in the first hour of panic, and it is difficult to get such people to come forward to open their houses, and have them disinfected.

In this connection I may also mention that as a provision against future contingencies, we must make some arrangements to have some men trained locally to do the work. In the course of your inspection you expressed also a similar opinion. I would propose, therefore, the entertainment of a few more men locally locally to be attached to the disinfecting parties to work with them until they can be entrusted with the work independently. There is no doubt that it is quite possible to disinfect more houses in a day than has been done hitherto. The slowness of the work is said to be due to the difficulty to induce people to render the assistance necessary to disinfect the houses. But such an obstacle cannot now be put forward, as people are all very anxious to re-occupy their houses. It might not be out of place here to state that with a few local trained men under the supervision of an inspector having experience of Plague work, disinfection can be done probably with much greater speed, and also at less cost. If the training of local men is commenced immediately, then it will probably be possible to send back the disinfecting staff working at present, and go on with the

The work with local men. In either case, however, we have to get the sanction of Government, which, if request may be applied for and obtained.
